By treaty it is distinctly provided that privileges and assistance and protection will be mutually given to the respective countrymen on thepart of the Governments of the United States and of the Chinese Empire, and if America takes upon harself to disregard the treaty then all that remains for China to do is to also disregard the treaty and to adopt a policy of retaliation by notifying American residents that they have to leave the country. From the accounts of the occurrence oublished in the local papers it appears that the prisonar was a convict undergoing a sentence of 15 years' penal servitude (a commuted death sentence) for murder committed at Penning. To was received in the gaol in 1886. On the afternoon of the 1st April the prisoner was brought before Major Grey charged with serious misconduct. He was them ardered to be removed from the middle grade to a lower one and on account of unruly behaviour in the office was sentenced to receive twelve strokes with a prejor's table in the verandah. He usedi very bad language and although be was repeatedly ordered to be silent, this had no effect. He was then shown a small ruler! and theratened that this would be tied across his mouth and he at once became quiet and and obsdient. Half an hour later the prisoner. with five others, was brought out to be flogged and at once became violently abusive. Major Grey then informed him that he had so much nereased his offence, that the flogging would not be carried out, and he would be brought before the visiting Justice. Upon hearing this the man burst out in the most abominable anguage and refusing to heap silence he was ordered to be gagged and hundcuffed. The ruler was then sent for and orders given for the man to be handouffed behind his back. The Chief Warder and Warder Longburst tried to carry out these orders, but the prisoner sommenced at once to assault them. Major Grey, who was present all the time, then came forward and struck the prisoner twice on the side of the head and then closed with him so as to get him down on his face to allow of his hands being tied behind him. The prisoner. still struggling, then tried to get Major Grey's hand into his month and struck out with great strength and determination. Some one then called out, "Take care; he-has a knife" and the Major told the warders who were trying to take he knife away to hold him scoure, while he retained his hold on the man's neck. Looking over the prisoner's shoulder he saw about two inches of the blade of a small knife sticking out of his closed land. The knife was finally secured and the prisoner handoniful and garged under the observation of Dr. Leask. this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word i fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hithorto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, nehieving a clearness not previously attained, and di Sensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore charac-torized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chineso charac-Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted.
